Cranial vault fracture and transverse palatine suture in a newborn with Ullmann's congenital developmental dysplasia of the hip. Ullmann's congenital developmental dysplasia of the hip is a congenital disorder of dysplasia of the hip joint and is characterized by a dislocation of the femoral head on the acetabulum, an enlarged acetabulum, and a valgus deformity. Ullmann's disease is classified as congenital and primary. A child with Ullmann's congenital developmental dysplasia of the hip presents with a decreased range of motion, lack of abduction in the hip, hallux valgus, painful clicking in the hips and feet, and edema in the calves. Radiographs of a child with Ullmann's disease revealed a cranial vault fracture and an intact palatine suture. On physical examination, there was no shortening of the limb or deformity in the wrist, ankle, or foot. However, the child's weight was less than 20% of his birth weight and the presence of a coarctation of the aorta was found. The authors describe the relationship between Ullmann's disease, the fracture, and the palatine suture. A cause for this constellation of findings is discussed.[Comparative analysis of the synthesis of proteoglycans by the growth of bacteria of enteropathogenic Escherichia coli]. The polysaccharides produced by two strains (alpha O:K2:H2 and alpha O:K30:H38) of enteropathogenic Escherichia

---

coli were studied. The analysis of the isolated polysaccharides showed that they had a molecular weight of 65,000-81,000 and a degree of polymerization that varied from 10 to 12. The water soluble fraction of the polysaccharides gave precipitates with heparin-Sepharose 4B and wheat-germ agglutinin. This fraction contained mainly tetrasaccharide units, closely resembling those of mucus-like glycoproteins.

Words and music are the tools of our craft, and just as important as your command of them is the way you use them. The very core of our craft is not the content, but the craft of the content. We are not a service that offers great content, but whose primary goal is to find you the most fun way to share it. Our name says it all, we have a heart for creating art. When we get into the depth of this, we see that words, music and the art thereof are but a vessel for our message. That message is the center of our craft. The artists we serve, the lives we touch and the business we build all serve the message. A few weeks ago I had a conversation with a customer who has been with us since the day we started. It was a phone call. He'd called our office and left a message. Well, actually he left several messages. I was so tired and overwhelmed by the day, I decided not to return his call. Then, just to put out an olive branch, I asked our billing office to reach him to see if he needed anything. I figured I'd hold off on returning his call until they had a chance to check in with him. Just about a week later we got a call back from our office. I had missed my chance at peace. The caller was a former coworker who I hadn't talked to in years, and I admit, I was a little irritated about it. So it would have been helpful if I had checked in first with my folks, instead of letting them do the outreach. But there is a lesson in all of this. Take time to think of your customers, your coworkers, and your family when you send the mail that is affecting them. Let them know you're aware of their needs and are working to address them. You will be rewarded in the long run, and it will make you a stronger employee. Now, if only I had known what I know now, I would have been better prepared. I am glad that I have so many readers who had been a part of my life for so long, those who have stuck with me through thick and thin, those who have become part of my staff, those who have kept me honest, and those who have taught me so much. There is one, very specific commenter I appreciate, but whom I will identify as DFW. DFW was a
