I did not install anything new, yet in about 3-4 weeks Windows would freeze up and start lagging. Over time I noticed that Windows Defender, a signature protected program (like Avast) runs in the background. After about a year the process would stop and Windows would be smooth again, as if it just restarted. I removed Avast and it has been the same for over a year now. Then just recently, the problem returned to its roots. It would again get stuck and give me the Blue Screen Of Death. The message is: "The plug and play device is not functioning. Some possible causes may be... devices attached to the computer are not functioning properly. For example, a USB flash drive." After I remove the USB drive, it the Blue Screen of Death error remains. I don't know whether to think, things have gotten worse or what? Its a new HP computer and I am absolutely terrified that since it runs Windows 7, I should be getting it repaired. It is an ASUS computer. Is there any way to return it to how it was? I don't know what to do, or if it is even fixable. I just want to make sure that it won't happen again, until I find out what I can
